This Year in Music Class

How "MUSIC IS CONNECTED"

and more!

This year in music class, we will be exploring a lot of fun and exciting aspects of music! Students will notice three prominent themes repeat throughout this year:

GREAT MUSICIANS & MUSICIANSHIP

This Year in Music Continued...

In the coming months, students will be exposed to more incredible music and exceptional musicians from a wide variety of cultures and genres. They will discover what makes the music enjoyable to hear. And, they will learn how to embrace the qualities of a devoted musician.

MAKING CONNECTIONS

Up next, students will be introduced to the idea that “Music is Connected”. We will explore the close relationships between music and other subjects, such as math, science, language, history, and more.

Most clusters will dive in deeper than ever this year, making a connection between music and the topics being taught by their primary classroom teachers.

PLAYING MUSIC!

Of course, it wouldn't be music class if we didn't learn to play or sing music. Students will learn different instruments based on their cluster and will play celebrated music compositions from the past and the present.

In continuing with the tradition started last year, we will also have more “Show & Tell” days for students to inspire each other by sharing their musical talents with their classmates.
